

LORDS AND LIBERALS SNARL

ASQUITH MAY HOLD OFF
VETO ISSUE UNTIL JULY.

Most of Work for Parliament Made by the New House—Hill Budget Fight Too—King, Church, Nonconformists, Catholics, Sport—Other Tangles.

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN.
LONDON, May 28.—The political truce which followed the death of King Edward has nearly run its course. The dogs of politics are again straining eagerly at their leashes, and although battle is not actually joined they are snarling at each other in mutual defiance.

The former declarations of the impossibility of yielding an inch are being repeated by the extremists of both parties and their respective journals, and occasionally from the rostrum. In more moderate quarters there is still talk of a compromise, and a suggestion of a conference between the leaders of the two parties has considerable favor among those who do not want a fight to a finish.

These appeals, among other precedents,
in that of the States composing the American Union, which settled differences in the convention of 1787. The extreme Radicals, Laborites and Irish, however,
have little use for the proposed conference. Some of them profess, indeed, to have no objection to such a discussion, but in the same breath they nullify their sequence by adding that in no case will the Liberals yield the position they have taken.

Although if a conference made it easy for the Lords and Tories to retreat from their present attitude it would possess an undoubted advantage, the extremists on the Tory side keep up an equally stiff lip, denouncing the pursuance of any course which might involve the King and subject him to criticism and cavil at the very outset of his reign. It is the Unionists' first duty, they say, to maintain the Constitution as it stands, without compromise or surrender.

WHEN PARLIAMENT MEETS.
The situation is in the hands of the Government and until Parliament meets on June 4 their intention is not likely to be divulged. It is practically certain, however, that they will not press forward the veto question immediately Parliament assembles, and if they are able to control their more extreme followers they may even postpone the issue until next year.

The despatches to THE SUN have already pointed out the claims of the civil list and regency bill to precedence. The budget for 1910-11 has also to be taken up, and as the Chancellor of the Exchequer has to provide for increased expenditure entailing presumably increased taxation a settlement of the financial question may be prolonged and difficult.

THAT ANTI-CATHOLIC DECLARATION.
Then there is the burning question of the King's declaration of Protestantism.
The Government have not yet given any clear intimation as to how they will deal with the offensive avowal, nor indeed any distinct pledge that they will deal with it at all, but the subject is known to be engaging the close attention of the members of the Cabinet. They are nervously reluctant to remove the insulting terms contained in the accession declaration, but the problem of legislation on the subject is extremely delicate. That executive plant, the Nonconformist conscience, upon which any Liberal Government must largely rely for sustenance, looks so violently under a touch of religious toleration that it behooves the Government to act with the greatest caution.

Premier Asquith himself would like to see the whole declaration abolished, leaving the coronation oath as the sole personal pronouncement of the sovereign upon Protestantism. By that oath the sovereign briefly swears to maintain the laws, the true profession of the Gospel and the Protestant reformed religion as established by law. All broad minded Protestants concur with the Premier that this should be sufficient. Protests against the objectionable declaration continue to be made at mass meetings and in newspapers, especially in Ireland.
A notable meeting at the Dublin Mansion
House this week, at which the Lord Mayor presided, unanimously passed a resolution demanding the suppression of the declaration.

The Tablet, England's leading Roman Catholic weekly, publishes an article headed "The Declaration That Must Go"
in which it says: "The royal declaration will never be spoken again. The only thing in doubt now is whether it will be simply abolished as superfluous or merely modified into harmlessness."

THE CHURCH AND THE PEOPLE.
The lessening of the hold of the church on all classes was the main topic at the London Diocesan Conference this week.
The Bishop of Kensington brought forward as proof the fact that the proportion of communicants to the population in small country dioceses with the best results was 14 per cent., while London's was barely 5 per cent., the candidates for confirmation being one-half of 1 per cent. He said:

"The springs of church life are drying up. The losses are not balanced by growing streams of fresh young life."
He believed the lay people's ideal of a "dryden" was greatly to blame. They wanted to want an able accountant who could collect plenty of money, a feverish traveller or a popular entertainer. A lay member of the conference said 25 per cent.
of the women would go to church but for
"dotted sermons."

THE KING ON THE TURF.
The Times, answering criticisms of non-conformist newspapers upon the King's amusement that he will continue as a spectator of the turf, says: "There will be some who will regret that the King has decided to give his countenance to a sport which they chiefly regard as an incentive to betting and gambling. If the turf were the vile thing its enemies represent it, King Edward would not have supported it for the greater part of his life.
We are not blind to the dangers of the turf, but we are convinced that the participation of the King will tend to maintain the prestige of the sport and to diminish its dangers."

DERBY DAY.
Thousands of Americans in London
are waiting to attend the Derby Wednesday. Today they are studying the probabilities of the Derby runners. They are especially taking Belmont's Merry
and Matney's Hamburg—Blue Girl
and another is among the favorites.
Bookmakers are offering temptingly cheap odds to catch American money.

The favorites in to-day's betting
are: Roseberry a Neil Gow, Fairie's Candy, and a Charles O'Malley and Lombard. A Greenback, Lombard and Neil Gow are the top favorites. The bookmakers are laying two to one against Lombard. The favorite has won the Derby twice, when Lord Roseberry's Cicero triumphed. There are 150 entries for the Derby.

THE WEATHER.
May 29.—The large area of high pressure moved a little eastward yesterday and was central over Ohio with fair weather attending it over all States east of the Mississippi River. The western depression developed an easterly centre over western Manitoba. There was light rain in the middle Mississippi Valley. In the lower Missouri and middle Mississippi valleys.
From the Dakota westward to the coast the pressure was high. It was low in the Southwest.
It was variable in the central States, the Ohio Valley, the Lake regions, the middle Atlantic
States and New England. Over Montana, Wyoming and Idaho it was cooler, with temperatures ranging from six to twelve degrees above freezing.
In this city the day was fair and warmer, wind, blowing from the north, with average humidity, 65
per cent. barometer, corrected to sea level, 30.14 at 8 A. M., 30.14 at 5 P. M., 30.08.
The temperature yesterday, as recorded by the official thermometer, is shown in the annexed
table:

For eastern New York, fair to day and warmer in northwestern portion; partly cloudy to-morrow;
light to moderate variable winds, becoming southerly.
For New England, fair to day; partly cloudy tomorrow; light to moderate variable winds.
For New Jersey and Delaware, fair to day and to-morrow; light variable winds, becoming southeasterly.
For the District of Columbia, eastern Pennsylvania and Maryland, fair and warmer to-day;
fair to-morrow; light variable winds, becoming southerly.
For western New York, fair and warmer to-day;
showers at night or to-morrow; moderate southwest to west winds.
For Pennsylvania, fair, partly cloudy and warmer to-day; probably showers at night; fair and slightly cooler to-morrow; light to moderate southwesterly winds, becoming northwesterly to-morrow.

LORDS AND LIBERALS SNARL

ASQUITH MAY HOLD OFF
VETO ISSUE UNTIL JULY.

Most of Work for Parliament Made by
the New House—Hill Budget Fight
Too—King, Church, Nonconform-
ists, Catholics, Sport—Other Tangles.

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN.
LONDON, May 28.—The political truce
which followed the death of King Edward
has nearly run its course. The dogs of
politics are again straining eagerly
at their leashes, and although battle is
not actually joined they are snarling
at each other in mutual defiance.

The former declarations of the impossibility of yielding an inch are being repeated by the extremists of both parties
and their respective journals, and occasionally from the rostrum. In more moderate quarters there is still talk of a com-
promise, and a suggestion of a conference
between the leaders of the two parties
has considerable favor among those who do not want a fight to a finish.

These appeals, among other precedents,
in that of the States composing the American Union, which settled differences in
the convention of 1787. The extreme Radicals, Laborites and Irish, however,
have little use for the proposed conference. Some of them profess, indeed, to
have no objection to such a discussion,
but in the same breath they nullify their
sequence by adding that in no case
will the Liberals yield the position they
have taken.

Although if a conference made it easy
for the Lords and Tories to retreat from
their present attitude it would possess
an undoubted advantage, the extremists
on the Tory side keep up an equally stiff
lip, denouncing the pursuance of any
course which might involve the King and
subject him to criticism and cavil at the
very outset of his reign. It is the Unionists' first duty, they say, to maintain the
Constitution as it stands, without compromise or surrender.

WHEN PARLIAMENT MEETS.
The situation is in the hands of the Government and until Parliament meets
on June 4 their intention is not likely to be divulged. It is practically certain, how-
ever, that they will not press forward the
veto question immediately Parliament
assembles, and if they are able to control
their more extreme followers they may
even postpone the issue until next year.

The despatches to THE SUN have al-
ready pointed out the claims of the civil
list and regency bill to precedence. The
budget for 1910-11 has also to be taken up,
and as the Chancellor of the Exchequer
has to provide for increased expenditure
entailing presumably increased taxation
a settlement of the financial question may
be prolonged and difficult.

THAT ANTI-CATHOLIC DECLARATION.
Then there is the burning question of
the King's declaration of Protestantism.
The Government have not yet given any
clear intimation as to how they will deal
with the offensive avowal, nor indeed
any distinct pledge that they will deal
with it at all, but the subject is known to
be engaging the close attention of the members of the Cabinet. They are
nervously reluctant to remove the insulting
terms contained in the accession declaration, but the problem of legislation on the
subject is extremely delicate. That
executive plant, the Nonconformist con-
science, upon which any Liberal Government must largely rely for sustenance,
looks so violently under a touch of
religious toleration that it behooves the Government to act with the greatest caution.

Premier Asquith himself would like
to see the whole declaration abolished,
leaving the coronation oath as the sole
personal pronouncement of the sovereign
upon Protestantism. By that oath the
sovereign briefly swears to maintain the
laws, the true profession of the Gospel
and the Protestant reformed religion as
established by law. All broad minded Protestants concur with the Premier
that this should be sufficient. Protests
against the objectionable declaration
continue to be made at mass meetings
and in newspapers, especially in Ireland.
A notable meeting at the Dublin Mansion
House this week, at which the Lord Mayor presided, unanimously passed a
resolution demanding the suppression of
the declaration.

The Tablet, England's leading Roman Catholic weekly, publishes an article
headed "The Declaration That Must Go"
in which it says: "The royal declaration
will never be spoken again. The only thing in doubt now is whether it will be
simply abolished as superfluous or merely
modified into harmlessness."

THE CHURCH AND THE PEOPLE.
The lessening of the hold of the church
on all classes was the main topic at the London Diocesan Conference this week.
The Bishop of Kensington brought for-
ward as proof the fact that the proportion
of communicants to the population in
small country dioceses with the best
results was 14 per cent., while London's
was barely 5 per cent., the candidates
for confirmation being one-half of 1
per cent. He said:

"The springs of church life are drying
up. The losses are not balanced by
growing streams of fresh young life."
He believed the lay people's ideal of a
"dryden" was greatly to blame. They
wanted to want an able accountant who
could collect plenty of money, a feverish
traveller or a popular entertainer. A lay
member of the conference said 25 per cent.
of the women would go to church but for
"dotted sermons."

THE KING ON THE TURF.
The Times, answering criticisms of non-
conformist newspapers upon the King's
amusement that he will continue as a
spectator of the turf, says: "There will be
some who will regret that the King has
decided to give his countenance to a sport
which they chiefly regard as an incentive
to betting and gambling. If the turf
were the vile thing its enemies represent
it, King Edward would not have supported it for the greater part of his life.
We are not blind to the dangers of the turf,
but we are convinced that the participation of the King will tend to maintain the
prestige of the sport and to diminish its
dangers."

DERBY DAY.
Thousands of Americans in London
are waiting to attend the Derby Wednesday. Today they are studying the probabilities of the Derby runners. They
are especially taking Belmont's Merry
and Matney's Hamburg—Blue Girl
and another is among the favorites.
Bookmakers are offering temptingly
cheap odds to catch American money.

The favorites in to-day's betting
are: Roseberry a Neil Gow, Fairie's Candy, and a Charles O'Malley and Lombard. A Greenback, Lombard and
Neil Gow are the top favorites. The book-
makers are laying two to one against Lombard. The favorite has won the Derby
twice, when Lord Roseberry's Cicero
triumphed. There are 150 entries for the Derby.

THE WEATHER.
May 29.—The large area of high pressure moved
a little eastward yesterday and was central over Ohio with fair weather attending it over all States east of the Mississippi River. The western depression developed an easterly centre over
western Manitoba. There was light rain in the
middle Mississippi Valley. In the lower Missouri
and middle Mississippi valleys.
From the Dakota westward to the coast the pressure was high. It was low in the Southwest.
It was variable in the central States, the Ohio
Valley, the Lake regions, the middle Atlantic
States and New England. Over Montana, Wyoming and Idaho it was cooler, with temperatures ranging from six to twelve degrees above
freezing.
In this city the day was fair and warmer, wind,
blowing from the north, with average humidity, 65
per cent. barometer, corrected to sea level, 30.14
at 8 A. M., 30.14 at 5 P. M., 30.08.
The temperature yesterday, as recorded by the
official thermometer, is shown in the annexed
table:

For eastern New York, fair to day and warmer in
northwestern portion; partly cloudy to-morrow;
light to moderate variable winds, becoming southerly.
For New England, fair to day; partly cloudy to-
morrow; light to moderate variable winds.
For New Jersey and Delaware, fair to day and
to-morrow; light variable winds, becoming south-
easterly.
For the District of Columbia, eastern Pennsylvania and Maryland, fair and warmer to-day;
fair to-morrow; light variable winds, becoming
southerly.
For western New York, fair and warmer to-day;
showers at night or to-morrow; moderate southwest to west winds.
For Pennsylvania, fair, partly cloudy and
warmer to-day; probably showers at night; fair
and slightly cooler to-morrow; light to moderate
southwesterly winds, becoming northwesterly
to-morrow.

LORDS AND LIBERALS SNARL

ASQUITH MAY HOLD OFF
VETO ISSUE UNTIL JULY.

Most of Work for Parliament Made by
the New House—Hill Budget Fight
Too—King, Church, Nonconform-
ists, Catholics, Sport—Other Tangles.

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN.
LONDON, May 28.—The political truce
which followed the death of King Edward
has nearly run its course. The dogs of
politics are again straining eagerly
at their leashes, and although battle is
not actually joined they are snarling
at each other in mutual defiance.

The former declarations of the impos-
sibility of yielding an inch are being repeated by the extremists of both parties
and their respective journals, and occasionally from the rostrum. In more moderate quarters there is still talk of a com-
promise, and a suggestion of a conference
between the leaders of the two parties
has considerable favor among those who
do not want a fight to a finish.

These appeals, among other precedents,
in that of the States composing the American Union, which settled differences in
the convention of 1787. The extreme Radicals, Laborites and Irish, however,
have little use for the proposed conference. Some of them profess, indeed, to
have no objection to such a discussion,
but in the same breath they nullify their
sequence by adding that in no case
will the Liberals yield the position they
have taken.

Although if a conference made it easy
for the Lords and Tories to retreat from
their present attitude it would possess
an undoubted advantage, the extremists
on the Tory side keep up an equally stiff
lip, denouncing the pursuance of any
course which might involve the King and
subject him to criticism and cavil at the
very outset of his reign. It is the Union-
ists' first duty, they say, to maintain the
Constitution as it stands, without compromise or surrender.

WHEN PARLIAMENT MEETS.
The situation is in the hands of the Government and until Parliament meets
on June 4 their intention is not likely to be divulged. It is practically certain, how-
ever, that they will not press forward the
veto question immediately Parliament
assembles, and if they are able to control
their more extreme followers they may
even postpone the issue until next year.

The despatches to THE SUN have al-
ready pointed out the claims of the civil
list and regency bill to precedence. The
budget for 1910-11 has also to be taken up,
and as the Chancellor of the Exchequer
has to provide for increased expenditure
entailing presumably increased taxation
a settlement of the financial question may
be prolonged and difficult.

THAT ANTI-CATHOLIC DECLARATION.
Then there is the burning question of
the King's declaration of Protestantism.
The Government have not yet given any
clear intimation as to how they will deal
with the offensive avowal, nor indeed
any distinct pledge that they will deal
with it at all, but the subject is known to
be engaging the close attention of the members of the Cabinet. They are
nervously reluctant to remove the insulting
terms contained in the accession declaration, but the problem of legislation on the
subject is extremely delicate. That
executive plant, the Nonconformist con-
science, upon which any Liberal Government must largely rely for sustenance,
looks so violently under a touch of
religious toleration that it behooves the Government to act with the greatest caution.

Premier Asquith himself would like
to see the whole declaration abolished,
leaving the coronation oath as the sole
personal pronouncement of the sovereign
upon Protestantism. By that oath the
sovereign briefly swears to maintain the
laws, the true profession of the Gospel
and the Protestant reformed religion as
established by law. All broad minded Protestants concur with the Premier
that this should be sufficient. Protests
against the objectionable declaration
continue to be made at mass meetings
and in newspapers, especially in Ireland.
A notable meeting at the Dublin Mansion
House this week, at which the Lord Mayor presided, unanimously passed a
resolution demanding the suppression of
the declaration.

The Tablet, England's leading Roman
Catholic weekly, publishes an article
headed "The Declaration That Must Go"
in which it says: "The royal declaration
will never be spoken again. The only thing in doubt now is whether it will be
simply abolished as superfluous or merely
modified into harmlessness."

THE CHURCH AND THE PEOPLE.
The lessening of the hold of the church
on all classes was the main topic at the London Diocesan Conference this week.
The Bishop of Kensington brought for-
ward as proof the fact that the proportion
of communicants to the population in
small country dioceses with the best
results was 14 per cent., while London's
was barely 5 per cent., the candidates
for confirmation being one-half of 1
per cent. He said:

"The springs of church life are drying
up. The losses are not balanced by
growing streams of fresh young life."
He believed the lay people's ideal of a
"dryden" was greatly to blame. They
wanted to want an able accountant who
could collect plenty of money, a feverish
traveller or a popular entertainer. A lay
member of the conference said 25 per cent.
of the women would go to church but for
"dotted sermons."

THE KING ON THE TURF.
The Times, answering criticisms of non-
conformist newspapers upon the King's
amusement that he will continue as a
spectator of the turf, says: "There will be
some who will regret that the King has
decided to give his countenance to a sport
which they chiefly regard as an incentive
to betting and gambling. If the turf
were the vile thing its enemies represent
it, King Edward would not have supported it for the greater part of his life.
We are not blind to the dangers of the turf,
but we are convinced that the participation of the King will tend to maintain the
prestige of the sport and to diminish its
dangers."

DERBY DAY.
Thousands of Americans in London
are waiting to attend the Derby Wednesday. Today they are studying the probabilities of the Derby runners. They
are especially taking Belmont's Merry
and Matney's Hamburg—Blue Girl
and another is among the favorites.
Bookmakers are offering temptingly
cheap odds to catch American money.

The favorites in to-day's betting
are: Roseberry a Neil Gow, Fairie's Candy, and a Charles O'Malley and Lombard. A Greenback, Lombard and
Neil Gow are the top favorites. The book-
makers are laying two to one against Lombard. The favorite has won the Derby
twice, when Lord Roseberry's Cicero
triumphed. There are 150 entries for the Derby.

THE WEATHER.
May 29.—The large area of high pressure moved
a little eastward yesterday and was central over Ohio with fair weather attending it over all States east of the Mississippi River. The western depression developed an easterly centre over
western Manitoba. There was light rain in the
middle Mississippi Valley. In the lower Missouri
and middle Mississippi valleys.
From the Dakota westward to the coast the pressure was high. It was low in the Southwest.
It was variable in the central States, the Ohio
Valley, the Lake regions, the middle Atlantic
States and New England. Over Montana, Wyoming and Idaho it was cooler, with temperatures ranging from six to twelve degrees above
freezing.
In this city the day was fair and warmer, wind,
blowing from the north, with average humidity, 65
per cent. barometer, corrected to sea level, 30.14
at 8 A. M., 30.14 at 5 P. M., 30.08.
The temperature yesterday, as recorded by the
official thermometer, is shown in the annexed
table:

For eastern New York, fair to day and warmer in
northwestern portion; partly cloudy to-morrow;
light to moderate variable winds, becoming southerly.
For New England, fair to day; partly cloudy to-
morrow; light to moderate variable winds.
For New Jersey and Delaware, fair to day and
to-morrow; light variable winds, becoming south-
easterly.
For the District of Columbia, eastern Pennsylvania and Maryland, fair and warmer to-day;
fair to-morrow; light variable winds, becoming
southerly.
For western New York, fair and warmer to-day;
showers at night or to-morrow; moderate southwest to west winds.
For Pennsylvania, fair, partly cloudy and
warmer to-day; probably showers at night; fair
and slightly cooler to-morrow; light to moderate
southwesterly winds, becoming northwesterly
to-morrow.

LORDS AND LIBERALS SNARL

ASQUITH MAY HOLD OFF
VETO ISSUE UNTIL JULY.

Most of Work for Parliament Made by
the New House—Hill Budget Fight
Too—King, Church, Nonconform-
ists, Catholics, Sport—Other Tangles.

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN.
LONDON, May 28.—The political truce
which followed the death of King Edward
has nearly run its course. The dogs of
politics are again straining eagerly
at their leashes, and although battle is
not actually joined they are snarling
at each other in mutual defiance.

The former declarations of the impos-
sibility of yielding an inch are being repeated by the extremists of both parties
and their respective journals, and occasionally from the rostrum. In more moderate quarters there is still talk of a com-
promise, and a suggestion of a conference
between the leaders of the two parties
has considerable favor among those who
do not want a fight to a finish.

These appeals, among other precedents,
in that of the States composing the American Union, which settled differences in
the convention of 1787. The extreme Radicals, Laborites and Irish, however,
have little use for the proposed conference. Some of them profess, indeed, to
have no objection to such a discussion,
but in the same breath they nullify their
sequence by adding that in no case
will the Liberals yield the position they
have taken.

Although if a conference made it easy
for the Lords and Tories to retreat from
their present attitude it would possess
an undoubted advantage, the extremists
on the Tory side keep up an equally stiff
lip, denouncing the pursuance of any
course which might involve the King and
subject him to criticism and cavil at the
very outset of his reign. It is the Union-
ists' first duty, they say, to maintain the
Constitution as it stands, without compromise or surrender.

WHEN PARLIAMENT MEETS.
The situation is in the hands of the Government and until Parliament meets
on June 4 their intention is not likely to be divulged. It is practically certain, how-
ever, that they will not press forward the
veto question immediately Parliament
assembles, and if they are able to control
their more extreme followers they may
even postpone the issue until next year.

The despatches to THE SUN have al-
ready pointed out the claims of the civil
list and regency bill to precedence. The
budget for 1910-11 has also to be taken up,
and as the Chancellor of the Exchequer
has to provide for increased expenditure
entailing presumably increased taxation
a settlement of the financial question may
be prolonged and difficult.

THAT ANTI-CATHOLIC DECLARATION.
Then there is the burning question of
the King's declaration of Protestantism.
The Government have not yet given any
clear intimation as to how they will deal
with the offensive avowal, nor indeed
any distinct pledge that they will deal
with it at all, but the subject is known to
be engaging the close attention of the members of the Cabinet. They are
nervously reluctant to remove the insulting
terms contained in the accession declaration, but the problem of legislation on the
subject is extremely delicate. That
executive plant, the Nonconformist con-
science, upon which any Liberal Government must largely rely for sustenance,
looks so violently under a touch of
religious toleration that it behooves the Government to act with the greatest caution.

Premier Asquith himself would like
to see the whole declaration abolished,
leaving the coronation oath as the sole
personal pronouncement of the sovereign
upon Protestantism. By that oath the
sovereign briefly swears to maintain the
laws, the true profession of the Gospel
and the Protestant reformed religion as
established by law. All broad minded Protestants concur with the Premier
that this should be sufficient. Protests
against the objectionable declaration
continue to be made at mass meetings
and in newspapers, especially in Ireland.
A notable meeting at the Dublin Mansion
House this week, at which the Lord Mayor presided, unanimously passed a
resolution demanding the suppression of
the declaration.

The Tablet, England's leading Roman
Catholic weekly, publishes an article
headed "The Declaration That Must Go"
in which it says: "The royal declaration
will never be spoken again. The only thing in doubt now is whether it will be
simply abolished as superfluous or merely
modified into harmlessness."

THE CHURCH AND THE PEOPLE.
The lessening of the hold of the church
on all classes was the main topic at the London Diocesan Conference this week.
The Bishop of Kensington brought for-
ward as proof the fact that the proportion
of communicants to the population in
small country dioceses with the best
results was 14 per cent., while London's
was barely 5 per cent., the candidates
for confirmation being one-half of 1
per cent. He said:

"The springs of church life are drying
up. The losses are not balanced by
growing streams of fresh young life."
He believed the lay people's ideal of a
"dryden" was greatly to blame. They
wanted to want an able accountant who
could collect plenty of money, a feverish
traveller or a popular entertainer. A lay
member of the conference said 25 per cent.
of the women would go to church but for
"dotted sermons."

THE KING ON THE TURF.
The Times, answering criticisms of non-
conformist newspapers upon the King's
amusement that he will continue as a
spectator of the turf, says: "There will be
some who will regret that the King has
decided to give his countenance to a sport
which they chiefly regard as an incentive
to betting and gambling. If the turf
were the vile thing its enemies represent
it, King Edward would not have supported it for the greater part of his life.
We are not blind to the dangers of the turf,
but we are convinced that the participation of the King will tend to maintain the
prestige of the sport and to diminish its
dangers."

DERBY DAY.
Thousands of Americans in London
are waiting to attend the Derby Wednesday. Today they are studying the probabilities of the Derby runners. They
are especially taking Belmont's Merry
and Matney's Hamburg—Blue Girl
and another is among the favorites.
Bookmakers are offering temptingly
cheap odds to catch American money.

The favorites in to-day's betting
are: Roseberry a Neil Gow, Fairie's Candy, and a Charles O'Malley and Lombard. A Greenback, Lombard and
Neil Gow are the top favorites. The book-
makers are laying two to one against Lombard. The favorite has won the Derby
twice, when Lord Roseberry's Cicero
triumphed. There are 150 entries for the Derby.

THE WEATHER.
May 29.—The large area of high pressure moved
a little eastward yesterday and was central over Ohio with fair weather attending it over all States east of the Mississippi River. The western depression developed an easterly centre over
western Manitoba. There was light rain in the
middle Mississippi Valley. In the lower Missouri
and middle Mississippi valleys.
From the Dakota westward to the coast the pressure was high. It was low in the Southwest.
It was variable in the central States, the Ohio
Valley, the Lake regions, the middle Atlantic
States and New England. Over Montana, Wyoming and Idaho it was cooler, with temperatures ranging from six to twelve degrees above
freezing.
In this city the day was fair and warmer, wind,
blowing from the north, with average humidity, 65
per cent. barometer, corrected to sea level, 30.14
at 8 A. M., 30.14 at 5 P. M., 30.08.
The temperature yesterday, as recorded by the
official thermometer, is shown in the annexed
table:

For eastern New York, fair to day and warmer in
northwestern portion; partly cloudy to-morrow;
light to moderate variable winds, becoming southerly.
For New England, fair to day; partly cloudy tomorrow; light to moderate variable winds.
For New Jersey and Delaware, fair to day and
to-morrow; light variable winds, becoming south-
easterly.
For the District of Columbia, eastern Pennsylvania and Maryland, fair and warmer to-day;
fair to-morrow; light variable winds, becoming
southerly.
For western New York, fair and warmer to-day;
showers at night or to-morrow; moderate southwest to west winds.
For Pennsylvania, fair, partly cloudy and
warmer to-day; probably showers at night; fair
and slightly cooler to-morrow; light to moderate
southwesterly winds, becoming northwesterly
to-morrow.

LORDS AND LIBERALS SNARL

ASQUITH MAY HOLD OFF
VETO ISSUE UNTIL JULY.

Most of Work for Parliament Made by
the New House—Hill Budget Fight
Too—King, Church, Nonconform-
ists, Catholics, Sport—Other Tangles.

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN.
LONDON, May 28.—The political truce
which followed the death of King Edward
has nearly run its course. The dogs of
politics are again straining eagerly
at their leashes, and although battle is
not actually joined they are snarling
at each other in mutual defiance.

The former declarations of the impos-
sibility of yielding an inch are being repeated by the extremists of both parties
and their respective journals, and occasionally from the rostrum. In more moderate quarters there is still talk of a com-
promise, and a suggestion of a conference
between the leaders of the two parties
has considerable favor among those who
do not want a fight to a finish.

These appeals, among other precedents,
in that of the States composing the American Union, which settled differences in
the convention of 1787. The extreme Radicals, Laborites and Irish, however,
have little use for the proposed conference. Some of them profess, indeed, to
have no objection to such a discussion,
but in the same breath they nullify their
sequence by adding that in no case
will the Liberals yield the position they
have taken.